

LADIES AUXILIARY

BY BARB HARWOOD

The ladies luncheon / tour will be similar to last year. The luncheon and meeting will be at Da Vinci's in Williamstown W.V. We had a great meal and conversation. We will order off the menu. You can Google the restaurant to look at the menu if you wish.

We will meet in the lobby across from the show about 10:30, leaving the Lafayette at 10:40 by car pool. Hopefully the weather will be more cooperative than last year so we can head to Henderson Hall Plantation for a tour of the house and grounds after we eat. If bad weather, we can head back to the hotel to visit, go shopping etc.

Our auction and birthday cake will be on Friday. Please be thinking of what you could donate to the auction. Handmade items, baked goods, especially go well. The baked goods that can be snacked on during the show are especially appreciated. Anything would help bring in the dollars.

That said, bring those too! It takes a variety of items and deep pockets to make this a success.

Each year we out do the previous, something the ladies and I are very proud of. If you have any questions email or call myself or Alys. We will set up and be ready to start 3 pm at the latest. The auction will end about 8 pm with announcing the winners. Cash or checks accepted, no credit cards. Alys and I are looking forward to meeting new ladies that are more than welcome to join us.

Co-Pres. Barb Harwood 740-332-6344 harwood@bright.net

Co-Pres. Alys Wagner 740-749-3305 alycwwagner@frontier.comp.

Mark Herman (left) and well-known frontier-era craftsman Ken Netting (right) setting up shop at the Sons of Liberty Pre-1890 Indoor Trade Fair, Canter Caves, Jackson County, January 2024. (Mark Bender photo)

John Reinbolt staffing the AOLRC display, Early American Trades Fair, Log Cabin Shop, Lodi, Ohio, October, 2023. Three exceptional Ohio rifles (top to bottom): George Stull, Knox. County; James Teaf, Sr., Jefferson County; A.P. Sherman, Washington County. (Mark Bender photo)

Engraved patch box on a rare fancy flintlock by James Teaf, Sr. (1796-1861), Jefferson County, Ohio. Displayed by John Reinbolt at Early American Trades Fair, 2023. (Mark Bender photo)